GRF Nonprofit Tax Principal

Richard Locastro to Speak on the New Form 990 at FAR Luncheon

September 18, 2009 – Bethesda, MD – Nonprofit Tax Principal Richard J. Locastro, CPA, JD, of Gelman, Rosenberg & Freedman, CPAs, will participate in a panel discussion titled “Revisiting the Form 990: Did You Survive the First Year?” during a luncheon held by the Finance and Administration Roundtable on September 23, 2009.

The new Form 990 took effect this fiscal year. It was called by some “the biggest thing the IRS has done in the last 20 years.” It significantly increased the transparency of tax-exempt organizations and includes much more information on internal governance and executive compensation.

Locastro will have plenty to contribute, as he has been the co-leader for numerous presentations on the new Form 990, which GRF has hosted. Additionally, Locastro and his team prepare hundreds of tax returns for nonprofit organizations each year.

Register for the luncheon online at <http://www.far-roundtable.org/luncheon/index.htm>.
